Pat Kuleto's "aptly named" "swanky steakhouse" on the Embarcadero – boasting a "stunning" interior, "2-lb. chunks of meat" and "drop-dead views" for "watching the boats on the Bay" – is "paradise" for carnivores and the "dwindling expense-account crowd"; but considering the "gold bullion prices", a cadre of critics say "epic expectations" for chef/co-owner Jan Birnbaum's exhibition kitchen sometimes result in "disappointments", prompting suggestions to "go for lunch" "on the patio" to enjoy that "amazing ambiance" "without breaking the bank."
